MAROONED BOYS GET
ASHORE; RESCUERS
ARE ALSO RESCUED

MESA, Nov. 29.—Happy to be in their homes in Mesa once more, clothed in dry wearing apparel and stimulated with hot and wholesome food after the long 26 hours of cold and hunger that they suffered, Truman Pasley and George Shirro were the center of attraction in Mesa yesterday as they told to hundreds of people of their harrowing experiences of being marooned by flood waters on an island in the Salt River and finally rescued when they were all but exhausted.

Taken off the island by a rescue party on the north side of the river late Friday evening, the two boys were taken to the Salt River Indian agency and returned late that night by way of the Tempe bridge to their anxious parents in Mesa. In dry clothes and given a hearty meal, they both appeared little the worse for wear and after a good night's sleep were out yesterday, refreshed and vigorous as ever and much the wiser for their experiences.

Rescuers Rescued

Sharing in much the same troubles as the two boys, the two men who went to the boys' rescue Friday afternoon and were marooned on another island were brought back to the main land yesterday morning. Though wet from the dip in the river when their boat capsized, the two men were enabled to dry out by a fire and kept a hot blaze going all Friday night. Hungry as well as wet, the two men discovered a pumpkin that had drifted down from above with the flood waters, and this they resorted and roasted over the coals, appeasing their appetites somewhat until food was available.

As quick as daylight set in yesterday morning a boat was put out from this side of the river and Glover and Pittinger brought in without mishap. Truly thankful to the scores of Mesa and valley people who assisted in the rescue of their boy, the Pasley family last evening directed the following expression of gratitude:

PYREX GLASS OVEN DISHES

We all know that the sun shining through the window warms the room. The same thing applies to PYREX. A large part of the heat in the oven is radiant heat and is lost through the use of metal containers. This extra heat cooks the food quicker and better than the old slow way. Pyrex will not chip or crack.

FRANK C. BAUER
GETS COUNTY JOB

TEMPE, Nov. 29.—The following item was taken from a Prescott newspaper and will be of interest to Tempe folks:

"Frank C. Bauer, late of the Bank of Arizona, is now in official harness as a deputy county recorder, receiving the appointment a few days ago from Recorder McGowan. This young man is of a courteous disposition and also is destined to make a clever official in any capacity. He is receiving congratulations from many friends, and is universally popular in this community."

Young Bauer is strictly a Tempe boy, having lived here all his life until about three years ago when he went to Prescott to accept a position with the Bank of Arizona. He made friends in every detail, Frank has many friends in Tempe.

From California

Mrs. Amanda Richards has returned to Tempe after spending the last six months in California. Before coming to Arizona, Mrs. Richards visited Rev. J. R. Rountree and family, who left here this fall.

FLYING PARSON DUE
AT SAN DIEGO THIS WEEK FOR FESTIVAL

Lieut. Belvin W. Maynard, the "flying parson," who piloted a one-stop flight from Mineola, N. Y., to San Diego, probably will reach that city this week while the Trans-Continental Railway week festivities are at their height. Maynard was preparing to "hop off" last Tuesday, but has postponed his trip for several days because of weather conditions. Should he leave Monday, as now planned, he will be greeted on his arrival in San Diego by thousands of visitors from all western points, who will be anxious to meet the intrepid "sky pilot."

The "flying parson" will make his spectacular flight in a great De Havilland machine, carrying 375 gallons of gasoline, distributed in five eight tanks. His one stop will be made at Dallas, Texas. Army officers at San Diego are enthusiastic over the long flight and predict that the "parson" will succeed.

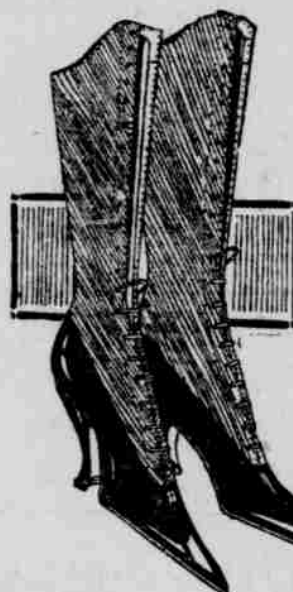

Governor William D. Stephens of California has wired the celebration committee that he will be in San Diego for the opening of the new railroad. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Stephens, and they will remain for three days. The governor and wife will visit Poway before returning to San Diego, where Mrs. Stephens used to teach school, and where they were married many years ago. Other visiting governors will be Governor Thos. E. Campbell of Arizona and Governor Octaviano Larrazola of New Mexico. Plans for the celebration are complete and the big doings will begin with the arrival of the first S. D. & A. train Monday afternoon.

CHAMBER COMMERCE
QUARTERS OUTGROWN
NEW PLACE DESIRED

The Phoenix chamber of commerce is outgrowing its present quarters and preparations are under way to provide new accommodations for it. The president has appointed the following committee to investigate and report on plans for changes:

eration meeting. Everyone welcome. At 7:30 p. m. the farewell service of the meeting will be held. The Evangelist will preach on "After Death What?" at which time he will answer these three questions: "Where the dead go at death?" "Is heaven a place?" "Shall we know each other there?"

GETTING HIS MONEY'S WORTH

(Houston Post) Personally, we rather like the income tax as we become accustomed to it. We obtain genuine pleasure out of the reflection that for a few dollars every three months, we can get out on the thoroughfare and bawl out the government as if we were the sole owner of the whole palpitating U. S. A. The steel works at Joliet were the first in the United States to roll steel rail direct, without reheating from the ingot.
